A winning combination of intellect and creativity ▶

Gain a truly liberal arts education while at the same time achieving personal intellectual growth.

Where will the next generation of creative thinkers come from?

▶ National University's College of Letters and Sciences covers the continuum of liberal arts and sciences education, providing students with programs that are both practical and academically challenging. You can choose from degree programs offered in five departments: arts and humanities, social sciences, professional studies, psychology, and mathematics and natural sciences. Experienced faculty strive to help students attain their professional goals throughout their education lifecycle. Whichever major you choose, your degree will broaden your world view and help you reach your career and personal objectives. And National's one-course-per-month format, flexible scheduling, and 24/7 support is designed to fit your lifestyle.

Why Liberal Arts and Sciences?

By developing critical thinking, writing, and analytical skills, liberal arts programs prepare the student to enter and move ahead in many different careers. The combination of practical learning with theoretical study allows students to "learn how to learn" so that their proficiencies stay relevant throughout their lives. Skills highly sought after by employers in a range of industries – communication, creativity, analytical thinking, diplomacy, problem solving, leadership, team building, and appreciation of cultural diversity – are covered in the variety of degree programs offered by the College.

Whichever major you choose, your degree will broaden your world view and help you reach your career and personal objectives.

As our society becomes more and more dependent on sophisticated technologies, the need for individuals who can intelligently communicate about them has never been greater. For these advances to be beneficial, people from all walks of life must be able to understand and use them. Adept writers, public relations specialists, and journalists serve as communication liaisons between the high-tech realm and the average user. The College's writing-intensive liberal arts programs allow students to become such practiced communicators.

Psychology has become a sought-after field of study for many. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the need for psychologists and related professionals is expected to grow faster than average for all occupations through 2014. This is due to increased demand for psychological services in schools, hospitals, social service agencies, mental health centers, substance abuse clinics, consulting firms, and private companies. National University offers program options for those interested in this growing field.

Students who study lab-intensive science programs take the first step to a lifelong career in discovery. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, careers for biologists, researchers, conservation scientists, and foresters continue to grow for all occupations through 2014. These programs put students on the path to becoming life science, earth science, and mathematics teachers as well. National University's bachelor-level science programs also prepare students to enter specialized graduate programs.

careers in the justice system at the local, state, and federal levels.

Bachelor of Science in Domestic Security Management

This program provides graduates with a foundation in the politics and cultures of terrorism, best security practices to cope with a pending emergency, operations during an emergency, and recovery from an emergency. The focus is on management aspects of disasters and emergencies, and graduates work with a variety of emergency preparedness situations, such as threats to borders and ports. Threat assessment, disaster management, and crisis response planning and management are also learned.

Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science and Policy

The complex relationships between atmospheric, hydrologic, geological, and ecological systems and human activities are explored in a systematic way. This study provides excellent training for careers with agencies responsible for environmental protection and natural resources use, consulting firms, and those seeking opportunities for graduate studies.

Bachelor of Science in Mathematics

The Bachelor of Science in Mathematics provides a strong foundation in mathematics and its applications. Designed to help address our nation's increasing need for mathematical scientists, technicians and especially teachers, the program emphasizes reflective and conceptual understanding and technique.

Bachelor of Science in Natural Sciences

This degree provides a foundation in the earth and life sciences, and is designed for students who plan to teach at elementary or secondary levels. It is also useful for those preparing for careers in science education, health sciences, or in science-related business, engineering, technology, or social services fields.

Bachelor of Science in Organizational Behavior

The behavior of individuals and groups in an organization directly affects the success of the organization. Knowledge of human behavior, psychology and business is critical in helping people lead productive lives and contribute to the achievement of organizational goals and objectives. This degree provides a solid foundation for applying knowledge to the workplace and increasing the effectiveness of both individuals and work teams.

Bachelor of Science in Paralegal Studies

This program provides students with the legal skills required to serve the community ethically and efficiently. It is designed to enable students to understand and articulate legal theory and apply it ethically to legal professional practice.

Foreign Credential Bridge Program (for Students with Foreign Credentials)

The Foreign Credential Bridge Program is a pre-qualifying year of undergraduate study for students who have earned a recognized three-year bachelor's degree outside of the United States and who wish to earn a master's degree from National University.

Graduate Degrees ▶

Master of Arts in Counseling Psychology

This degree emphasizes marriage and family therapy for students who are committed to the practice of individual, couples, family, adolescent, and child psychotherapy. This degree meets the academic requirements necessary to sit for the Marriage and Family Therapist (MFT) License mandated by the Board of Behavioral Science in the state of California.

Master of Arts in English

Providing a balanced and comprehensive program of graduate study in literature and writing, this program is ideal for teachers who desire a content M.A. beyond the credential. It is also excellent preparation for doctoral studies in English, teaching in a two-year college, or other careers requiring a high degree of literacy.

Master of Arts in History

The Master of Arts in History offers you a broad yet focused program of graduate training in historical research and writing. The program is well-suited for teachers who would like a discipline-based master's degree beyond their credential. "I believe we live in a bottom-line society. We're supposed to grow up quick and get a job and be productive and contribute to the economy, and the consequence of that is that people, in the drive to succeed by society's standards, lose their creative outlet. MFA programs provide that outlet, and my guess is that there'll be more and more of them for many years – because the bottom line isn't everything, is it?"

- Mike Magnuson,

Southern Illinois University, assistant professor of English, speaking about the upsurge of creative writing programs.

Master of Arts in Human Behavior ○

The Master of Arts in Human Behavior is designed for students desiring greater knowledge of the behavioral sciences. Gain exposure to a wide array of behavioral topics covering personal, social and organizational issues. The program is for students who have specific ambitions in the fields of supervision, management, and administration, as well as students seeking personal or career growth, or requiring preparation for doctoral-level training.

Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing ○

In the Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing, you'll master advanced skills in creative writing in the areas of fiction, literary nonfiction, poetry, and screenwriting. This program is excellent preparation for a professional career in writing, working in the areas of publishing or filmmaking, and is the minimal academic qualification appropriate for those who desire to teach writing at the college or university level.

Master of Forensic Sciences ○

The Master of Forensic Sciences is a specialized professional degree designed for law enforcement, lab personnel, attorneys, investigators, and other professionals seeking to upgrade their existing skills, as well as individuals who are interested in pursuing a career in the forensic sciences, law, law enforcement, private or governmental laboratories, jails and corrections, and the Medical Examiner's Office.

Master of Public Administration ○

The Master of Public Administration is designed for students who want to pursue the challenging career of government management at the federal, state, or local level, as well as in nonprofit management organizations. The degree provides a wide range of skills in financial management, budgeting, quantitative methods, urban planning and redevelopment, personnel policies, politics, and grant writing. Available areas of specialization consist of alternative dispute resolution, human resource management, organizational leadership, and public finance.
