who are currently working in a school district to complete their induction program. National University is able to partner with districts to combine a teacher's work in the Induction program with the University's requirements for a master's degree. Currently offered in offsite cohorts only, this program combines the work completed in the preliminary teaching credential, the district induction program, and the Professional Clear SB2042 credential requirements, with a particular focus on preparing teachers for National Board Certification.

Master of Science in Applied School Leadership

(Offered in partnership with Santa Clara County Office of Education [SCCOE]) This program is offered in collaboration with the SCCOE "Leaders in Educational Administration Program" (L.E.A.P), and is comprised of six courses leading to the Preliminary Administrative Services (Tier I) Credential. Students must also take an additional six required National University courses for the completion of this degree.

Master of Science in Educational Administration

In this program, students will gain expertise in matters related to educational leadership and develop the capabilities and personal characteristics essential for efficient school administration. This degree can be completed with or without a credential option for those pursuing a career in the nonpublic education sector.

Z

National University ranks as one of California's top institutions of higher learning for providing master's degrees in education to minority students.

Master of Science in Educational Counseling

The Master of Science in Educational Counseling is aligned with national standards and prepares students for the position of school counselor. Graduates of this program generally seek employment as school counselors in K-12 school districts and must hold a PPSC credential for public school employment.

Master of Science in Instructional Leadership/NBCT

Developing leadership skills for students interested in becoming a school leader or administrator, this degree combines the five National Board Certified Teaching (NBCT) courses with five leadership courses from the Educational Administration program. Development of the NBCT portfolio serves as the thesis project. Adding three more courses within seven years may earn the student a preliminary administrator license.

Master of Science in School Psychology

This program is aligned with national standards and prepares students for the position of school psychologist. Graduates of this program generally seek employment as a school psychologist in K-12 school districts and must hold a PPSP credential for public school employment.

Master of Science in Special Education

The Master of Science in Special Education is designed for educators and other professionals who want to become knowledgeable about educational learning problems and teaching strategies to enhance student performance.

In this program students build expertise in educational learning difficulties and learn new methodologies to enhance student performance.

Master of Science in Special Education – Emphasis in the Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing

This degree is designed for educators and other professionals who want to become knowledgeable about educational learning challenges and teaching strategies to enhance performance of students who are deaf and hard of hearing.

Special Education Internships

The University Internship credential programs provide opportunities for students to assume the responsibilities of full-time “teachers of record” while completing the credential coursework required for their Level I Education Specialist preparation program. Interns must have an offer of employment from an approved school district or non-public school that either has, or is willing to enter into, a partnership agreement with National University. The University Internship credential students meet the requirements of No Child Left Behind (NCLB). Available special education internships include:
